

Corel® DESIGNER® 10 Available Now!

London - March, 4, 2003 – Corel Corporation (NASDAQ: CORL, TSX: COR) today announced the availability of Corel® DESIGNER® 10, a technical graphics application that allows users to create, manage and share technical diagrams, illustrations and schematics.

Launched at the National Manufacturing Week on Monday, Corel DESIGNER 10 emphasises key features for streamlining the production of technical graphics. Corel developed this latest version to meet the specific workflow requirements of professionals who create precise technical illustrations.

“Corel DESIGNER 10 will increase productivity within a technical design department,” said Ted Poltoranos, Director, Graphics Solutions at Corel Corporation. “In our research we found a lot of people weren’t using the most effective graphics application for their illustration work. Corel DESIGNER 10 is developed to give these professionals the output quality and workflow efficiency they require. Corel DESIGNER 10 will help ensure a technical illustration is completed quickly, accurately, and can be shared easily.”

- VBA scripting included in the application
- New and improved import/export filters to ensure complete compatibility within any workflow
- CorelTRACE® to easily convert legacy data to editable vector images
- Customisable workspaces to ensure a smooth learning curve
